Second Sunday of Lent

Sunday March 16th, 2025

Today is the Second Sunday of Lent, and the gospel reading is a challenging one. We do not have here joy at a miracle or receiving good news, but rather Jesus confronting the reality of how awful the world was, and can still be. People come out of fear of a corrupt and murderous ruler. The Lord laments over poor Jerusalem, and many still do as we see that wonderful yet divided city. Yet, the desire of Jesus is to shelter that city as a mother hen gathers her brood. This is an incredibly tender image. However far we may think we are from God, he still desires to bring us under the shadow of his wings.

For your prayers

For the Church, that in Lent that all Christians may take time for prayer and reflection

For Sarah our bishop, and Emma our area bishop

For The King and for all in authority in this land; for the many challenges facing the UK

For peace in our world and especially in the Holy Land and Ukraine

For all places riven by civil war

For the sick and suffering, for those in hospital, in different forms of care or supported at home; for hospital and health care services during the winter

For the departed especially victims of war and violence
